

SHADED RELIEF MAP OF IOWA

1999

Topographic variations in Iowa's land surface are shown by computer-enhanced shading, and with color bands indicating ranges of elevation. A prominent ridge curving from Osceola County south to Union County represents the drainage divide between the Missouri and Mississippi rivers.

Surface elevation above sea level (approximate)

